Straw Vote Shows 56 Pct. Democratic Majority as Campus Previews Election

LAKE IS ANSWER AS FROSH PURGE ALL THEIR SINS

Supervised Bathing,
Paddle Work Ended
As Caps Only Remain

Running water in the pond for the erasing of rookie sins was last week the finishing touch of the Raleigh Club initiation, while the Monogram Club is using gentle persuasion to enforce the wearing of green caps.

The lettermen furnish the needed persuasion in a board, which reminded a few that green hats are in style till after the first semester. Bob Duax, Chicago, Ill., senior and guiding light of the "J" organization says, "The lids better be on, for Monogram Club members are in favor of more meetings like the last informal get together. We have another of these meetings planned for the near future and possibly more to come."

Charley Simms, Louisville, Ky., senior and prexy of the long established Raleigh Club, admitted that the R. S. C. provided the long-needed immersion of the rookies. "We're through with the rookies," says genial Charley, "and satisfied that we have a very choice group of men to add to our club roster. You would think so too if you saw the agreeable attitude taken by the 100 new members in all phases of our initiation." Bill Kozielski, club treasurer, plugged, "Congratulations to the new members, and keep an eye on the social calendar of the rejuvenated Raleigh Club."

The highlight of the various parts of initiation was the whole-sale ducking submitted to, in most cases, by all rookies. Sure the water was cold, but all seemed to agree the initiation's finish was worth it. Simms himself, furnished a heroic ending by shedding himself of all valuable articles and plunging into the brink to save an unlucky frosh who couldn't swim.

Bus Leaves Five Of Band Behind

As is generally known, St. Joseph's Band went to Lafayette last Sunday to participate in the annual Holy Name Program.

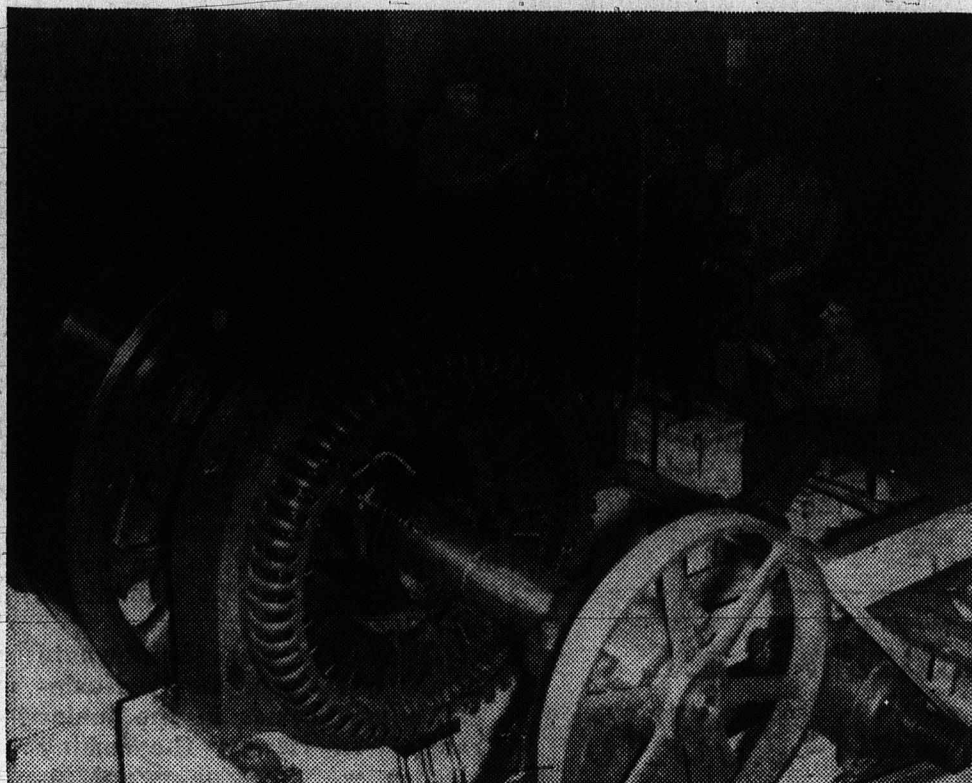

The band played during Benediction, and heard an address by the Rev. Aloysius Copenolle at Columbus Stadium.

What is not generally known, however, is that five of the band members were left behind. It seems someone got his signals mixed, for these gentlemen were waiting at the wrong pick-up spot.

While two of the victims rested peacefully at a local frat house three others reposed in the Union Station.

Early Monday morning thumb was king, and the boys arrived home safely.

Brothers Push

Light Is Made

Setup of New Transformers Is Halted When Auto Is Stolen

A marauding thief in Fort Wayne last week, with a desire for aggrandizement as large as his respect for higher education is small, is delaying the complete installation of the new powerhouse generator until the end of next week.

Mr. Henry, electrical contractor, had his car all loaded and ready to set out for Collegeville the next morning, when the law-breaker made off with the car, with local necessities inside.

Several days later the offender was apprehended. All of the St. Joe tools and supplies have been recovered and have been put to work on the local project.

Novena for Alumni Terminates Friday

The novena for the success of the alumni drive ends Friday.

The Sanguinist club spent an hour in prayer Sunday afternoon for the success of the alumni fieldhouse drive and for peace. Students ended a three-day Trium on the Feast of Christ The King.

Masses on All Saints day will be at eight o'clock and at nine-thirty.

Eligible Collegeville voters will cast their ballots next Tuesday, election day, in the South Marion schoolhouse, one mile east of the cemetery south of Collegeville.

Academy, Religious Groups Favor Willkie; College FDR

The Tabulations

COLLEGE		RELIGIOUS
Roosevelt	186 votes	Willkie	39 votes

If next Tuesday's national election would be left up to all the students in Collegeville, then Roosevelt would go down in history by a 56% majority over Wendell Willkie.

Actors Vote Gavel To Ralph Parker

College dramatists elected Ralph Parker, junior from Lincoln, Ill., to the presidency of the Columbian Literary Society last Sunday during the first meeting of the year.

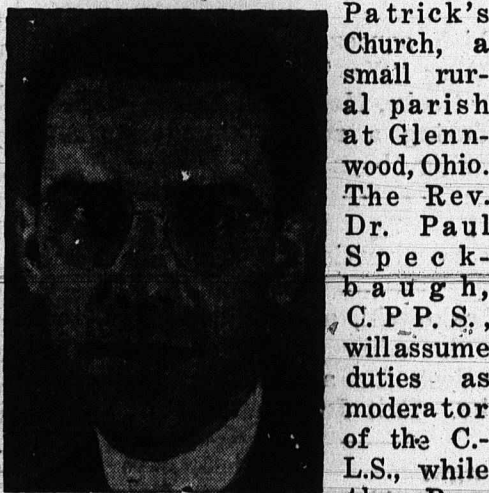

John Fehrenbacher, junior from Joliet, Ill., becomes vice-president. Jerry Bissler, senior from Kent, Ohio, will record the meetings as secretary, while Joe Vurpillat, Peru (Ind.) sophomore, guards the exchequer as treasurer. Bill Peitz, junior from Ft. Wayne, will serve the society as critic.

Freshmen and other new members were inducted yesterday during a special meeting.

According to the Rev. Dr. Paul Speckbaugh, C.P.P.S., new moderator of the club, the first play will appear in the college theatre near the end of November.

Dramatics Director Assumes Pastorate

Because of ill health, the Rev. Robert Koch, C.P.P.S., former director of dramatics, was transferred to the pastorate of St. Patrick's Church, a small rural parish at Glennwood, Ohio.

Fr. Koch

Diller, C.P.P.S., will take over the Curtain and Newman Clubs. Both men will work under the direction of the Rev. Ildephonse Rapp, C.P.P.S.

In the two years that Father Koch directed plays at St. Joseph's he achieved extraordinary success. Particularly "Shadow and Substance," staged last year, reached a high point of excellence.

He leaves with the esteem of faculty and students, who all regret his departure. With much less taxing duties at St. Patrick's, they pray that he will quickly completely regain his health.

Injured Bitler Sends His Best To Local 'Gang' via Recording

Flat on his back and unable to write because of a paralytic condition incurred while working during the summer, George Bitler, freshman athlete from Fort Wayne last year, sends best wishes to his St. Joe friends by record.

Campus record-playing machines have been using the record for all it's worth. Vanderkolk, Mosser, Hoffman, Duffy, Keane, and others come in for personal advice from George. That was just like Bitler always used to do.

Bitler also requested prayers

Academy and religious students polled Willkie, while college men leaned toward Roosevelt. Had all of the twenty-nine day students been contacted and had faculty members been included in the balloting, it is estimated that F.D.R.'s majority would have shrunk to 52%.

STUFF conducted the St. Joe straw vote.

Initial Press Banquet Slated for November

St. Joe will hold its first annual press banquet the latter part of November, according to plans under way.

The principal speaker will be Dr. John M. Cooney, Dean of Journalism at Notre Dame. The invitational dinner is under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Paul F. Speckbaugh, C.P.P.S., the Rev. Sylvester H. Ley, C.P.P.S. and Mr. Edward Fischer, alumni editor.

The staffs of STUFF and Measure will be the guests of the directors.

Yesterday saw St. Joe draftees considerably interested as numbers were drawn from the historic goldfish bowl in Washington. The 101 who registered here Oct. 16 are expected to be informed of their status within the next few weeks, according to local draft officers.

How the Collegeville eligibles stand will be forthcoming from draft officials in students' home towns.

The

DRIFT

(Editorial)

NEXT TUESDAY is election day. From dawn to dusk the voting millions of the United States will make their play. The eligibles from Collegeville will be among them.

This post-war generation of ours may well be mindful of the seriousness of next Tuesday's balloting. Take the St. Joe men of today, for instance. The coming four years will be the most vital in the plans of all of them.

And the ensuing administration will have a strong hand in those collegiate plans. What will it be? War? Economic Upheaval? Peace? Confusion?

Is it any wonder, then, that Collegeville gazes a trifle uneasily at the outcome after the polls close next week. Can she be censored for feeling somehow that the best part of every St. Joe man's life hangs in the balance?

While next Tuesday voters of the nation will be mobilizing to elect a new president, Collegeville herself—voters and non-voters alike—should mobilize at Mass, to tell God in five hundred individual voices the national predicament—and how it affects us all.

THIS NEW POLICY heralded in STUFF last week has now progressed to the stage of announcement. Regularly henceforth, one of the STUFF editorials will be coordinated, issued to issue, with the avowed aim to give student well-being a shot in the arm.

With seventy-eight millions of our nation's citizens no longer aligned with organized religion, is it not high time that Catholic college men shoulder their vocal arms?

In times such as these religion should never be merely the subject Joe Doakes pursues rather half-heartedly on Tuesdays and Thursdays at two o'clock.

The STUFF editorial policy will attempt to make better salesmen for Christ out of its readers—to keep Faith from slipping.

Next Wednesday will see the first installment.

IF THIS WERE A BREWERY, and it isn't, STUFF would send a stein of suds to:
(1) The boys who voluntarily are making the novena for the alumni fieldhouse campaign.

(2) The five Drexelites who commanded a team and a wagon last Saturday and cleaned out the orchard of old brush in front of their hall.

(3) Whoever tunes his radio to WMAQ and Father Gillis every Sunday afternoon at five.

Following the Flickers

With Dick Scheiber

PAYING THE MOVIE WAR TAX is the most evident inroad made upon the St. Joe man's motion picture entertainment. This one setback, however, is relatively minor.

Remember a year ago how much you read about television developments? Then you heard, too, about the new "trans-lux" movie house and what it will mean to the cinema public.

Came the war and with it death to noteworthy research. Peacetime ventures are suffering, and that is why, in the case of the flickers, we suffer more than by paying the mere federal tax.

Today and Thursday at the RITZ

"Argentine Nights," starring the Ritz Brothers and the Andrews Sisters in their first film. Legion Rating: A-2.

A torch singer leads her all-girl band into the pampas and falls in love with an authentic Argentine gaucho.

This is the only serious movement in the whole flicker, and the Ritz brothers are to be blamed for that. Nine songs, one of which is the at once famous and infamous "Rhumbogie," by the three daughters of Missus Andrews, carry the show.

Friday and Saturday at the RITZ

"Tugboat Annie Sails Again," in which leather-skirted Marjorie Main traditionally hen-pecks Alan Hale, her blunder-bus husband. Legion Rating: A-1.

Marjorie Main, mainly by throwing monkey wrenches at all the other tugboat czars, becomes undisputed in her reign over the tug-men in the Nantucket Flats. She makes you think of Marie Dressler.

Starts Sunday at the PALACE

"Down Argentine Way," where Don Ameche is a ranchero with a fine horse, and Betty Grable is a traveling glamor girl who has an eye out for horseflesh—and Ameche. Legion Rating: A-2.

Starts Sunday at the RITZ

"Spring Parade," offering Deanna Durbin in love for the first time, Robert Cummings, and Mischa Auer. Legion Rating: A-1.

The above tells the story of Imperial Vienna of the studded 1890's, when the swish of celebrative tulle drowned out the ominous rustle of sabers and rifles.

COLLEGEVILLE MERRY-GO-ROUND

Lavelle Bandjough O'Reilly

Since our former colleagues shut the water off, we, the three stags, shall try to pipe you the news and views (dirt?) through another line. Due to circumstances beyond their control, et cetera, et cetera, the Gold Dusters announce their profound resolution to go into hibernation. Or have they some studying to do? As a parting gesture we tender them their own bouquet of weeds and send them off with a rousing . . . well, you name it.

From the business at hand we proceed to . . . Highpockets Sacksteder, the refugee from a melting pot, who, it seems, is unable to confine his verbal tryades to the daylight hours, thus disturbing Drexel's third-story men in their nocturnal hay-making. We recommend Dr. Pajaw's Cure-All, obtainable from any unauthorized veterinarian.

Oddities In The News:

Jumbo Hankish squeezing into a size 50 jacket and whistling "We Three."

Note To Freshmen:

It doesn't pay to advertise.

Crapper Joe Laskowski, alias Flush-Eggs, took his turn at magic the other day when he reached his hand into his desk for a pencil and emerged with a garter snake. Exit Joe on the run!

Campus Theme Songs:

Frosh—Beat Me, Daddy.
Sacksteder Dreaming Out Loud.
Shaeffer—He's A Tough Hombre.
Olsen—Pessimistic Character.
Tichenor Where Was I.

Well, Gates, its time for our beauty nap so . . . as one hand on the clock said to the other—"See ya' 'round."

As an example for all Freshmen not to follow we offer up for scrutiny one Mario Zanon. What Is the Significance Of the Coming Election?

By John O'Grady

Millions will go to the polls next Tuesday to exercise their democratic right of voting. What is the main issue that these people will decide? The question for this week was asked to enable college students to express their opinion on what is the significance of it all. From indications it seems highly possible that on Nov. 5, the most important election of our generation will take place.

Dominic Kastre, senior class officer and well known for his ability to use a scissors and a comb, gave this thought-studded answer. "One of the significant points of the coming election," explained Dom, "will be whether the American people still hold to the tradition of not permitting a man to remain in office too long for the public's good."

William Kozielski, senior accounting student from Chicago, was brief yet to the point when he answered, "This election will, in my opinion, decide what the people of our country think of the old tradition, 'no third term.'"

More detailed was the answer of Joseph Toth, junior pre-medic who displays a great deal of interest in the coming affair. "We say that democracy is that form of government which is the servant of the majority. During the last seven years the majority appear to have been served, and next Tuesday the people will go to the polls to determine whether or not they want to be served again by the present administration."

Christianity was the keynote of the answer of Remy Hazinski, a new comer in the junior ranks. "In viewing the coming election we must disregard interests," Remy said, "and cultivate christianity, the lack of which is responsible for many present ills. We will find ourselves physically prepared, but spiritual fitness must also be in the foreground."

Jack Danaher, freshman liberal arts student, added a little humor to the question in disclosing his answer. "This is the most significant election in the history of the United States because of present conditions, even if it is a Democrat both ways."

Puma Prints

By G. Richard Schreiber

About this stage in the football season, fireside coaches, and the rest of us who like to figure out data, gather in a few statistics about the team we're rooting for. So far the Pumas have stacked up a total of 100 points against their opponents' 65. That makes a good average of 16 2-3 points a game. Of these, Pete Varini, plunging fullback, has personally accounted for 54, thereby laying claim to the state scoring championship. Pete leads players from such well-known universities as Norte Dame and Purdue.

ON PAPER

Look at the Puma's strength from this angle: So strong was the Louisville Colonels' line in their game with Cincinnati U. that the Kentuckians were able to hold the Queen City to a meager seven-points victory. St. Joe trounced the Louisville eleven with a decisive score of 19-6. On paper that makes the Cardinal and Purple one touchdown stronger than the Ohio aggregation. And the Cincy team is no slouch this season.

Speaking of Louisville—when Manual high and St. X, both of Louisville, tied into each other last Saturday there was many an interested spectator on our campus. Joe Celletti, who was captain at X., and Knobbie Walsh, also from there, sent pep telegrams to the coach of their high-school alma mater. On the other hand, Bill Smith and a host of others from Manual, sent a similar message to the coach at Manual.

STUDENT TRIP

So successful did the the student trip to Valparaiso prove last year that there is another movement underway for a student trip to the Purdue-St. Joe basketball game, to be played at Purdue, December 6. The cost for transportation would be small, and students would be given cut prices at the game. Out of the seven thousand people (that's how many usually attend a Purdue game) the Pumas surely deserve some support to help them bring home a victory.

Press notices on Leroy Floriano, 175-pound right halfback from Wisconsin's St. Norbert, tell a mighty story of how the Knights' game captain ran wild in the game last week with Carroll college. Floriano rammed over left tackle for 22 yards and the first score; sidestepped through the Carroll secondary and dashed 54 yards for another marker; and followed this one minute later with a run of 58 yards for the third tally. The Pumas will do well to keep one eye cocked for this Floriano, just to make certain history doesn't repeat.

SPORTSCOPE

The old injury jinx layed a heavy hand on the Pumas this year. Just after Steven Theodosius took the cast off his arm, Claude Hisey, stellar tackle, suffered a shoulder dislocation. Hisey went along with the team to the Danville game for all his injured shoulder. On the basketball schedule, which appears elsewhere on the sports page, you will notice that the U. of Mexico, from Mexico City, will play the Puma five here on Jan. 27. The Mexican school, with an enrollment of over 7,000, will make a tour of the mid-west basketball circuit. They will arrive here the 27th, and probably stay over the following day, going to the University of Illinois for a game on the 29th.

Pumas Face 'Last Half' Team Next

SEASON FINALE WITH POWERFUL GREEN KNIGHTS

Football will take its final bow for the St. Joe men Sunday, Nov. 10, when they face a strong St. Norbert squad on the latter's field in West DePere, Wisconsin.

Thus far in the season, the Green Knights have proved themselves a fighting organization that knows full well how to come from under the short end of a score to bag the engagement. Remember last year? Our boys led St. Norbert's 18-0 at the start of the final quarter. When the whistle blew to end the tilt, the Green Knights had garnered two T. D.'s and an extra point. They were well on the march toward another goal when the game ended, St. Joe 18, St. Norbert, 13.

Again this year, if we can judge from their record, the Wisconsin eleven is a "second-half" squad. In their game with Carroll College they were losing 10-7 at the fourth quarter, but finally won with a score of 26-10. The same thing happened in their game with Wheaton, when they were behind 14-0 at the half. The Knights rallied to win 31-14.

In the second half, St. Norbert's offensive power begins to click, and her backs turn loose. At the same time her line stiffens and becomes a stronger defensive unit.

If the record of winning 3 and dropping 1 can be taken as true estimate of St. Norbert's power, then the Pumas would do well to watch their corners in the last game of the '40 season.

BULLETIN

Reports this morning from Doctor Washburn of Rensselaer indicate that possibly Claude Hisey, senior tackle, will see service against St. Norbert's Nov. 10.

Hisey's shoulder, dislocated on Oct. 22, has been healing rapidly.

FROSH PLAY FINAL GAME

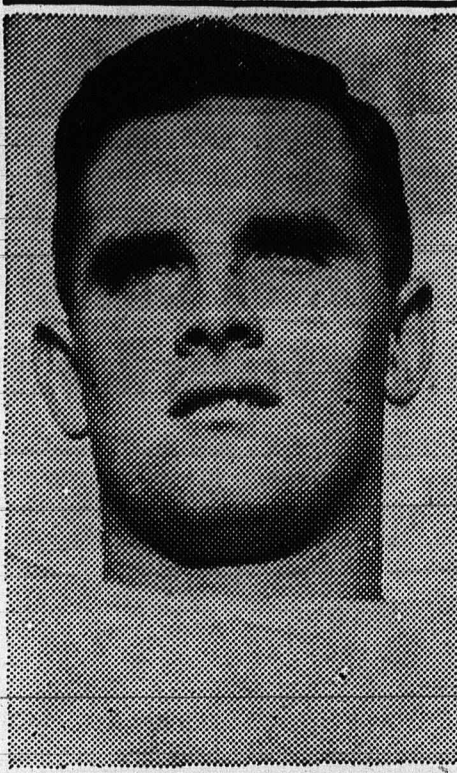

Valpo U.'s Freshman team will come to Collegeville, Friday, Nov. 1, to wind up the Frosh gridiron season on the college field at two o'clock.

The Frosh lost their one game to Culver freshmen by a score of 13-7. Since that time, however, the team has greatly improved and should show the Valpo eleven some fine football.

"Rapid Robert" Kanne, who led the Rensselaer high school through an undefeated season last year, is the sparkplug of the Frosh team. Kanne opened the final period against Culver with a run of 18 yards. He then passed to Fermanek for 21 yards; passed to Marcus for the lone score; and place-kicked the extra point.

PRACTICE BEGAN MONDAY NIGHT FOR VETERAN 5

Simultaneously with the release of the basketball schedule, varsity basketball practice, under the direction of head coach, Joe Dienhart, got under way Monday night at seven o'clock when cage enthusiasts reported in the gym for hardwood activity.

Eleven lettermen, including the entire starting lineup from last season, return to bolster the Puma five's chances, both in the Indiana Conference and in games outside that league. Prominent among those returning is Neal Mosser, who piled up a total of 300 points last season to shatter the Indiana state scoring record.

Some of the outstanding possibilities this year are: Bernard Hoffman, Neal Mosser, Urban Pfeffer, Maury Guttsell, Norman Bowman, Jim Bodeker, Wendell Bowman, Billy Bahler, Tony Ponzevic and Bill Reed. All but Wendell Bowman, who was ineligible for conference competition last year, are lettermen.

Also to be counted on are the following boys who are playing football, and who will report for basketball later: lettermen Don Clark and Conny Vanderkolk, Stan Lapsys and Curly Wisniewski.

Bowling Enthusiasts Will Start Rolling Next Week

Bowling enthusiasts gathered last week in Science Hall to organize campus bowling teams which will participate in games to be staged at Kanne's bowling alley, starting the first week in November.

Team captains were appointed during the course of the meeting. Jack Seemuth, Joe Cantwell and Dan O'Laughlin are the three captains who have already formed five-man teams. For each team, a six-man alternate has been named.

In addition to the squads already named, four to six more teams will be selected in the immediate future. Captains for these teams have not yet been announced.

Raleigh Club Plans 'Go to Town' Night

Raleigh Smoking Clubmen—both old members and the newly inducted and chastised rookies—will enjoy a social evening in town next Friday night.

Under the supervision of the Rev. Clarence Kroeckel, C.P.P.S., moderator, and senior club officers Charles Simms and Bill Kozielski, the K. of C. Hall will be procured for the affair.

Refreshments are expected to be ample, and the planners of the party guarantee that no one will leave the hall out of sheer boredom or starvation.

Gridders Dampen CN Homecoming

DANVILLE, Ind., Oct. 26.—St. Joe dashed cold water on Central Normal's homecoming celebration, when the Pumas romped to a 24-6 victory over the Warriors.

Two touchdowns by Pete Varini boosted the Puma fullback's standing as highest scorer in the state to a total of 54 points for the season.

The Collegeville gridders took a punt on their own 20, and after a series of four first downs were knocking on the door in Warrior territory. High points in the drive down the field was a 15-yard pass, Stan Lapsys to Nick Scollard; a 30-yard run by Hal Duplain, and a 11-yard gain by Bob Duax. The gaps were filled in with steady gains by Varini, who climaxed the march when he drove across from the one yard line.

Bill Smith, right guard, intercepted a Warrior pass a few seconds later to race 30 yards for a touchdown.

The Pumas, shortly after the opening of the second half, recovered a fumble in mid-field. Steady gains by Duplain and Dick Nee, plus a penalty against Central Normal for unnecessary roughness, placed the ball on the seven. From there Duax scored on a sweeping run around left end.

A freak play, the kind that helped label football with the nickname of Saturday's Madness, was responsible for the Warrior's lone touchdown. Ronny Golay took a punt and was downed on the St. Joe 26. Central Normal was penalized five yards for off-sides. Golay picked up two. St. Joe was penalized 15 yards for holding. Then with the ball on the 18, a bad pass back from center bounced off Varini's shoulder and rolled behind the goal line. Ed Schmidt attempted to scoop up the free ball and run it to safe territory. But he fumbled, and Ray Birch, Warrior left tackle, recovered the ball behind the Puma goal.

Varini started the drive toward his own final touchdown, when he recovered a Warrior fumble on the St. Joe 40. Golay picked up five. Duplain swept around left end for a 20-yard gain. Scollard raced to the Central Normal five for a pass, but he was tackled by Schwartz, Warrior quarterback, before the ball was even near him. The pass was ruled as completed. On the next play Varini scored.

The Pumas rolled up 13 first downs to the Warriors' two.

Drexel Wins First Tag Football Game

Red Simms' Drexel Hall touch football eleven edged out the community students of Xavier Hall by a score of 7-6 Sunday in the first game of the new tag football league.

Despite their loss, the Xavier team played deep in Drexel territory on more than one occasion. Mike Homco kept his boys on the alert for Drexel passes and was able to hold the boys from across the road until the last few minutes of play when Jim Scheiber snagged a pass on the 15-yard stripe and carried it over. Ikovic converted for the deciding point.

Xavier scored in the second period when Homco completed a pass to Von Benken. The attempt at conversion was muffed. By winning, Drexel is qualified to meet Gaspar next Sunday to determine who shall meet the winner of the Seifert-Noll battle.

Halleck Recalls St. Joe Yarns Just Before Willkie Pays Visit

BULLETIN

Wendell Willkie rolled into Rensselaer last Sunday evening on a fourteen-car special campaign train, spent one hour within a mile of the Collegeville campus, and was whisked away toward Chicago.

More than a thousand townspeople saw the Republican candidate. Most of the St. Joe citizens were left out in the cold, however, when they attended the town movie during Willkie's brief stay here.

Willkie conversed with Congressman Charles Halleck, of Rensselaer, paid his respects to Mrs. Halleck who is convalescing in the Rensselaer hospital, and then left aboard his special train.

Mr. Halleck was not informed of the impending visit until after this interview.

Halleck

The man who nominated Wendell Willkie is Republican Representative Charles Halleck, lawyer whose home is in Rensselaer. He had a lot to say about Collegeville last Sunday afternoon.

In Rensselaer for a brief time between campaign speeches, Mr. Halleck told the STUFF interviewer about the colored photograph of St. Joe Ad building and chapel which hangs upon the wall of his office in Washington.

After inquiring about five present faculty members, Mr. Halleck mentioned traveling on the Willkie train with Bill Murphy, reporter for the Philadelphia Enquirer and St. Joe alumnus.

The local representative will be speaking throughout this second Indiana district until election. Mr. Halleck, who voted against the conscription bill, cited his personal viewpoint of the war, and told why he hasn't lost confidence in the post-war generation of college men.

Latest Test Grades Go Home In Next Week

The Reverend Dr. Henry A. Lucks, C.P.P.S., Dean of studies, explained yesterday reasons for the tests that so many St. Joe students have taken during the past week with a feeling of awe.

"The exams," pointed out Father Lucks, "are mere tentative tests that will give the office the correct index of each student and at the same time let the professors discover the needs and ability of each student."

Notes will be sent to students' homes on or about Nov. 9.

Recital on Chapel Organ Starts Nov. 1

St. Joseph's music Maestro, Paul C. Tonner, is inaugurating Friday something new in the way of offering an opportunity for all to hear good music.

On every Sunday and holy day of obligation, Professor Tonner will present a fifteen-minute organ concert before the ninety-three high Mass.

"Prof. Tonner is being more than generous when he offers to give up his time that the students may enjoy a golden opportunity such as he is affording them," said the Rev. Harold Diller, choir and glee club director.

Weekly Meetings Enter Sixth Year

As has been his practice for the last five years, the Rev. Sylvester Hartman, C.P.P.S., spiritual director of the college, is again regularly appearing in chapel every Wednesday evening after benediction in a series of brief lectures on various religious topics.

In this series Father Hartman intends to put forth in a systematic arrangement the fundamentals of the spiritual life.

All students are cordially invited to attend, professional as well as priesthood students. It is not often in outside life that opportunities of hearing systematic treatment of this phase of religion by one so well qualified to speak on that subject, presents itself.

Two Masses, Two Choirs in Chapel Plan

Henceforth two High Masses will be offered every Sunday to accommodate students.

A new choir, organized by the Rev. Harold Diller, C.P.P.S., and composed of college priesthood students, will alternate with the community singers in singing for the Masses.

The Academy Corner

By Earl Weis

One of the most successful of this year's many academy changes is the reading room. It has afforded academy members a quiet place to study at all hours. The periods when it is not occupied are few and far between.

The only fault that has been discovered was that there was no one to keep the books in order. This was eliminated this week with the informal appointment of freshmen Benjamin Domsic and Aubrey Serewicz as librarians. The Rev. Rufus H. Esser, C.P.P.S., principal, expressed the hope, though, that their appointment would not lessen the personal responsibility of each student in keeping the room in order.

The introduction of a serious game like chess into the recreation rooms has its humorous side. Have you ever seen the expressions of incredulity on the faces of the uninitiated watching a game? It's worth seeing. But this tops it. Little Aubrey Serewicz was found in the reading room, his head buried in the Book of Knowledge, Vol. 1, taking copious notes on the rules of chess given there. "Well," he said, "I want to learn," and you can't blame him for that.

This year's first meeting of the Newman Dramatic Club was held Sunday, Oct. 27. The new director, Rev. Harold V. Diller, C.P.P.S., gave a brief talk outlining the club's aims.

Officers elected are Walter Wolford, president; James Hoey, vice-president; Richard Arthur, secretary; Terrence Ferguson, treasurer; and A. J. Fitzsimmons, critic. Executive board members are John Dunn, (chairman), Paul Brunner, and Henry Ewaniec.
